Frank Wessells, collector of school taxes in School District No. 7, Drum Hill School, has begun his sittings. This year the rate is 43 cents on $198. This is less than one-half what the rate was last year. This low rate was predicted by those who were the advocates of the high assessments last month. They were simply waiting for an opportunity like this to prove that what they predicted was true. The chance has come, but it has been found by nearly all the taxnayers that, while the rate is less than one-half what it was last year, they are paying much more in taxnayers that, while the rate is less than one-half what it was last year, they are paying much more in taxnayers that, while the rate is less than one-half what it was last year, they are paying much more in taxnayers that, while the rate is less than one-half what it was last year, they are paying much more in taxnayers that, while the rate is less than one-half what it was last year, the assessed valuation in this district was: Realty, $1,36,46; personaity, $20,200-a total of $1,30,500. Incidentally, it might be said that the totals given are the first struck on the new assessment-book under the high assessments here corrected assessment-book has been placed on file for public inspection with the Town Clerk, but no totals are made, and when the public will have them, unless they add them up themselves, is not known.

The race between the two catboats, Edna, owned by John Dickson, of the Yonkers Corinthian Yacht Club, and the Colleen, owned by James Jackson, of the Tower Ridge Yacht Club, of Hastings, on Saturday, was won by the Colleen, more by good fortune than anything else. It was a drifting match, and those who had hoped for an exciting match, and those who had hoped for an exciting race between the rivers boats were disappointed. The course was twenty miles, starting from the clubhouse of the Tower Ridge club, to Tarrytown, then to a stakeboat off the Yonkers Corinthian elubhouse, and finishing at Hastings. On the first leg north the boats were compelled to anchor several times to prevent them from being carried backward by the tide. The Coolleen fortunately reached the Yonkers mark going south on the last of the ebb tide, and got the first of the change of tide to get back to Hastings. This allowed her to finish inside of the seven-hour limit. The Edna did not finish.
